In the evening a sermon was preached by Rev. A. Cockman. He drew a parallel between the Methodism of the early ages and that of the present time, to show that the arms 'ervor or holmess did not exist now in the denomination as formerly. He calculated with an exhortation to those present to be to their minds and energies to the good work before them.

Rev. Mr. Carroll, pastor of the church, then made a statement setting forth that about one hundred and one members constituted the congregation, and from them it was expected that the church should be supported. The expenses of the current year had amounted to $3,000, and there was a debt on the church of $15,000, for the purpose of heighing to liquidate which they wanted to raise $600 that night.

The Waverley Boat Club and Our Russtan Visitors.

Probably none among our citizens have shown a greater interest in or have become better acquainted with our Rus sian naval officers than the Waverley Boat Club-an ama teur organization, composed entirely of young men. On the day of the reception by the Common Council they were in attendance near the Admiral's frigate, with their splendid eight cared barge. Since then they have privately conveyed, upon invitation, a number of our distinguished citizens to the different vessels. On Tuesday last they visited the Admiral's frigate, in company with a number of their listy friends, and were bandsomely entertained by the Admiral's nephew, lieutemant Now seislad, and his brother officers, who were untiring in their efforts to make the "Waverley" visit agreeable. Yesterday they paid a visit, with ladies, to the frigate Oslabas, and sgain were the recipients of a generous welcome, and were sumptiously provided for in the grand saloon (after the same manner as on the flaxbilp). by Hiesterdant Kaschrintoff and the other officers of the frigate, after which they adjourned to the main deek, where the officers entirty instruments. The Admiral and the principal officers of all the vessels were on board at the time. The Club has tendered their services as an escort to any number of the Russian boats for a trip around New York island, passing up the East and through Harlem rivers and Spuyten Duyvel creek into the North river. The trip is one of surpassing beauty and seldom enjoyed by any of our citizens; and if our Russian officers should escide to make it they could not place themselves into more apprehenced and competent hands than the Waverley Boat Cuth, who are eager for a chance to reciprocate the steen tion paid them.

DEATH OF DR. DARCY.

[From the Newark Advertiser, Oct. 22.]

This event, which has for some days been foreshadowed and expected by his intimate friends, we regret to announce, occurred the morning at twenty minutes before eleven o'clock, and Dr. John S. Darcy is no longer among us to enlivon the social circle, cheer the desponding and relieve the suffering, which seemed to be his province to a larger degree perhaps than has fallen to the lot of any arduous cares, projected an overland expedition to the new El Iorado in 1849. Some of sur most enterprising young men joined his party, and the expedition was finally accomplished with auccess; but his own health was rather impaired than improved under the unaccustomed privations of California life, and he returned by the Isthmus route to his old friends and patients, among whom he soon found himself reinstated.

Dr. Barcy always occupied a prominent political position, and was attached to the democratic party, whose fortunes he followed through all its viciastindss with devoted zeal, and was in turn rewarded by its confidence in many forms. In early life he represented his native county in the Legislature, and was appointed United States Marshal for this State by General Jackson. He continued to hold the position during Mr. Van Buren's administration, and superintended the census for 1844. He was also a frequent delegate to the National and State convections of his party, and there was probably po office within the reach of his political friends that he might not have readily received. He only once yielded to their solicitations to become a candidate for office, and was then unsuccessful, his competitor, Hen. A. C. M. Ponnington, having received the majority of votes on political grounds.

During the later years of his life Dr. D. was most actively identified with the raircad interests, and was engaged in the controversies which agitated the people on
